Dear Chairman Quello:

As parents of the Middletown Prekindergarten Program, we would like to voice our dissatisfaction with the level of programming available to our children. Even some cartoons are not educational but demonstrate force and violence in a manner inappropriate for children's viewing. An example, Ren & Stympe, is totally unacceptable.

Beside creative program content, an important improvement would be the timing of good educational programs. Late afternoons, early evening and weekend would be the most appropriate viewing time.

An example of a worthwhile educational program is Barney. It teaches parenting, manners, fire safety, counting, how to deal with strangers, share toys, get along with siblings. Other good examples are the age old Sesame Street, Mr. Rogers, and 321 contact.

We have other suggestions. We would like to see more choices that enrich children's lives like teaching another language, i.e. Spanish, teaching discipline and a sense of responsibility. We also think programs that teach parenting skills would be an important benefit to children and their families.

Sincerely,

Dear Edythe Wise, F.C.C.;

The Flintstones and Jetson's cartoons are being attacked as "not educational" by the new F.C.C.. I believe that these two programs have been singled out for termination because they represent moral values of the normal heterosexual family. The Flintstone's and the Jetson's illustrate two parent households with children, where the husband has a and the wives take care of house and children. Fred as well as George both learn important lessons about life each episode, and both are loving thoughtful husbands who discipline their children, and apologize to their wives when they are wrong. There are many families today that could learn valued lessons from these cartoon characters. The problem with both shows is that they are not "politically correct" for the 1990's. (The one-parent, divorced, or same sex couples, of color, or the foul-mouthed teen airhead who worships satanic rock groups with crystal power or channeling, and the me, myself and I am god babyboomers).

The F.C.C. should remove programs like Donahue, shown at 9 am. weekdays when small children and pre-schoolers can be influenced by watching Grandma's, or the baby-sitter's TV, and Oprah at 4 pm. when school children can watch transvestites, hookers, cross-dressers, and teenage strippers parading on stage. These shows have no value, no educational substance, and are not only perverted and obscene, but are a waste of electricity. More than 100 TV sponsors have dropped Donahue because they feel that the shows content is degrading and detrimental to all viewers, but also to their products.

Let the F.C.C. get rid of the violence, sexually explicit homosexual immoral programs first, and not the ones which show values and family situations. Enclosed is a list of shows from the 1991-1992 seasons on Donahue supplied by A.F.A. The Ameican Family Association. Please reconsider the more obvious programs which are of no value to viewers and are degrading to the human mind.

Thank you for your time.
